

WANDA - Middleware Architecture

WANDA (WSN Application Development Aider) is a WSN integration middleware that covers many aspects like heterogeneous WSN management, service integration, QoS guarantees and data caching.

WANDA is in an early stage of engineering and is heavily under development, therefore there is still no documentation of its overall architecture, we will add it as soon as it becomes available.

You can access the currently available documentation by selecting it in the menu on the left.